Parking

Metered parking (25 cents for 20 minutes) is available in front of the store. Meters are enforced 8am-6pm Monday through Saturday (except for federal holidays). Note the number on the pole you park by, and pay at the box located between the dental office driveway and Popeyes driveway. The box accepts quarters, dollar coins, and credit cards, and prints a receipt that shows the expiration time. Meter parking for vehicles with Disability License Plates or a Disability Certificate is free. (Rates and hours shown are subject to change without notice - the meters are run by the city, not by us.)

Free parking is also available in the dental office lot all day Saturday and Sunday. (New dentist, new schedule; if you park in his lot at other times, you may be towed.)

Holiday Gift Ideas

Our most popular gift option continues to be our gift certificate. We can issue one for any amount. It can be used at either or both of the Uncles. It can even be used for mail orders, and it can be purchased over the phone (with a credit card), and we can mail it to the purchaser or to the recipient, or we can just enter the balance on a credit file here in the store to avoid the risk of the gift certificate being lost.

We also have hundreds of signed books, lots of art books, and humor books, including many that can be given to people who don't read sf or mysteries. And the publishers are pushing out a lot of very good novels in time for holiday gift-giving.

How's Business? by Don Blyly

I keep watching the various reports of national book sales being up some months and down other months, but always doing less well than the rest of retail. Sales at the Uncles also fluctuate compared to the same month the year before, but our fluctuations don't seem to have anything to do with the national fluctuations. Our September sales were up a little from last year, but October sales were way down compared to last year, and November so far is also way down compared to last year. I think the main problem is that we had a lot of late-November-style weather in early October and a lot of late-December-style weather in early November. We've certainly had a lot of good books coming into the store, but not enough customers have been coming in to buy them.

For years we've been unhappy about the decrease in the number of books coming out in mass market paperback. As more books come out in trade paperback instead of mass market paperbacks, the trade paperbacks spend less time on the new release shelf and the mass market paperbacks spend longer on the new release shelf. The shelf space for backlist trade paperbacks keeps getting more crowded, and the shelves for the backlist mass market paperbacks looks less full. (For us, a title becomes "backlist" when it comes off the new release shelf, but various publishers have internal rules about how many months old a book has to be before it is declared "backlist".) A few years back, Dorchester went under, and we had carried a lot of horror and paranormal romance mass markets from them at Uncle Hugo's, and they distributed Hard Case Crime mass markets to Uncle Edgar's. The titles to Uncle Hugo's usually only sold 1-3 copies per title, and Hard Case Crime found another distributor, so there wasn't much effect to our business. About a year ago Uncle Hugo's made some changes to our shelving for backlist mass market so that they wouldn't look so empty, and also to make it easier to move around the store.

Berkley used to publish a huge number of cozy mystery series in mass market, so many that around 1/4 of Uncle Edgar's mass market new release shelf used to be Berkley cozies. Around a year ago we heard that Berkley was killing off most of their cozy series, and we were worried. Then we heard that Kensington was picking up most of the cozy series that Berkley was killing off, and we were relieved. The customers don't care if the spine says Berkley or Kensington, as long as they can continue to get the series that they are following. The Berkley and Kensington books come from the same warehouse, in the same box, on the same invoice, so we don't care what imprint is on the spine.

But Kensington started putting a lot of the books out in e-book only instead of mass market paperbacks. (They also began to put out a lot of books in Uncle Hugo's territory in e-book only, but those are overwhelmingly by authors that we've never heard of before, so it doesn't make much difference to Uncle Hugo's.) Many of the cozy mysteries that Kensington was putting out in e-book only were continuations of series that our customers had been following in mass market paperback. The number of new mass markets for Uncle Edgar's went down and the time spent on the new release shelf went up.

With all the changes going on in the publishing field, we've started making significant changes to the physical layout of the books at Uncle Edgar's. We used to have the new mass market paperbacks alphabetical by author in one area, the new trade paperbacks alphabetical by author in another area, and the new hardcovers alphabetical by author in a third area. But with some series, part of the series was in mass market paperback, part in trade paperback, and the newest was in hardcover. We have now changed things so that the new mass market paperbacks, trade paperback, and hardcovers are all arranged together, alphabetical by author, which should make it much easier for customers to find what they are looking for. The back wall, which used to be new mass market paperbacks N-Z is now the beginning of the used mass market alphabet. As we started moving things around, we also looked at the sales of a lot of the older mystery titles, and found that many books early in the series by major authors hadn't sold a new copy in maybe 5 years, maybe 10 years, sometimes not in 15 years. Those titles were still selling well as used books, but our customers were waiting for used copies to come in rather than paying for new copies. So we returned a lot of new books that hadn't sold in years to make more room to display the used books better. After we're finished with the newsletter, some of the shelves toward the center of the store will be used to expand our used hardcover section, getting a lot of the piles of used books off the floor so that you can actually see what's on the bottom shelves without moving the huge piles on the floor.

Another change at Uncle Edgar's: Elizabeth got a new full-time job (not in retail), but will still be at Uncle Edgar's on Saturdays and occasionally for a few hours other days. Mary has been working Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday for several months, and Kai has been working Thursdays, Fridays, and Sundays for few months. Mary has read a lot more mysteries than Kai, but both will be happy to help you find what you are looking for. And both sometimes come to me when they can't get the computer to cooperate (and sometimes I can figure out the problem, with 17 more years of experience with the computer not cooperating).

Two years ago 786,935 ISBNs (International Standard Book Number) were issued for self-published books, and last year over 1,000,000 more ISBNs were issued for self-published books. And some self-published authors are so clueless that they put out their books without ISBNs, so that wholesalers and most retailers won't touch them because the computers don't know how to handle a book without an ISBN. Even among the self-published books with ISBNs that are carried by wholesalers, most are offered at a "short" discount (much lower discount than a bookstore can survive with) and are non-returnable. For decades we tried to have as complete a selection as possible of the science fiction, fantasy, and mystery books in print, but over the last few years this has become impossible.

We've been listing our used hardcovers and trade paperbacks (but not used mass market paperbacks) and our signed books on Abebooks for over 15 years, with about 29,000 titles at the moment. This allows many people from around the world to see what we have to offer and provides an easy way to order the books (although we save money and frequently the customers save money if they order the books directly from us instead of through Abebooks). It makes it easy for local customers to determine if we have a used book that they are looking for without having to drive to the store or call the store. And it helps us to quickly determine if we need used books that customers bring in to sell to us.

But it also makes us a target for scam artists. Several months ago I received an e-mail from a guy, wanting me to set aside a $200 signed hardcover. He claimed that he didn't believe in using credit cards, so he'd have to send me a cashier's check. But he claimed that he didn't believe in using the post office, so I'd have to send him a street address that UPS or FedEx could use to deliver the check. Since our street address is prominently displayed most places with our name, this seemed a little strange, but I sent him the street address and set the book aside for him. A few weeks went by without a check, so I sent him a reminder. He then claimed that he had told his secretary to send me a cashier's check for the correct amount, but his secretary had gotten confused and included her own paycheck in the amount that she had sent to me, so I'd have to refund the extra to his secretary after I had cashed the cashier's check. The deal was starting to smell. A couple of weeks later, UPS delivered a check (not a cashier's check) supposedly drawn on a large New York City engineering firm for $1999.67, supposedly sent from a manufacturing firm in Georgia. But when I used the UPS tracking number, I found that it had been sent from Louisiana. The story had also changed. Now, the extra money was for his wife in Louisiana, and he insisted that I had to deposit the check at once, and within 24 hours buy a postal money order for the extra amount payable to his wife, and send the postal money order and the $200 book to his wife's address in Louisiana immediately. I e-mailed back that I wasn't going to fall for this, and I asked him if I should return the check to the New York City engineering firm it was supposedly drawn on or to the Georgia manufacturing company that supposedly sent it to me. He actually responded and told me to tear that sucker up. (I did send letters to both the engineering company and the manufacturing company, explaining what had happened, in case there was somebody in either company helping with the scam. Because nothing actually went through the post office, the postal fraud people were not interested.)

Since then I've had 2 more e-mails, each using a different name, asking me to set aside a $250 signed hardcover, claiming that the customer doesn't believe in credit cards, and needed a street address that UPS or Fed Ex could deliver to. Both were from Louisiana. I didn't bother to respond to either.

Last issue I talked about the fire that destroyed the Roberts Shoes building, and that the owner expected the insurance company to examine the rubble and then clean up the site in late June, but instead the insurance company examine the rubble and then took away the heavy equipment, leaving the pile of rubble behind. I ran into the owner at a meeting in the middle of September and asked him what was going on. He said that the city requires a permit to clean up the rubble, and he had been trying for months to get the permit. But every time he thinks he's provided the city with everything they want to issue the permit, the city comes up with another demand. He was providing the latest paperwork demanded by the city, and hoped the site would be cleaned up before the ground froze. In the middle of October the heavy equipment came back, and for 2 or 3 days a week the trucks would haul away rubble for a few hours. They finally got the rubble removed and the hole filled after about a month, but it was after the ground had frozen and been covered with snow. I was surprised that so much heavy equipment would be left on the site for so long, mostly not doing anything.

The post office is requesting lots of rate increases starting January 27, 2019, including a 10% increase in first class postage, about 6% on priority mail, and increases on most other domestic mail charges, including media mail. I've tried to find out how much they plan to increase media mail, but I can't find that information on their website. They frequently don't get the full increase that they ask for. We have kept our rate for shipping books by media mail the same since 2004, in spite of many increases in postal rates in the last 14 years. After I find out how much the media mail rates are really going up, I may have to consider finally increasing what we charge. I'll let you know in the next issue of the newsletter. In the meantime, buy a bunch of forever stamps before the price goes up January 27. The postal rates for international mail has been going up much faster than the domestic mail rate, but that usually happens in the summer.

Short Recommendations by Don Blyly

House of Assassins by Larry Correia ($25.00, due early February) is the middle book of the trilogy which began with Son of the Black Sword. Larry is scheduled to sign at Uncle Hugo's on Monday, February 4, 5-6 pm.

Son of the Black Sword won the Dragon Award for best fantasy of 2015. On a world with a very strict caste system for the humans, there has been a war going on for centuries between the humans (who control the land) and the demons (who control the oceans). The only way the humans have survived is with magical weapons, and the number of magical weapons keep dropping. After it's previous owner died, an ancient magical sword picks young Ashok to bear it (after first killing or maiming a number of other people who tried to claim it). After years of training, Ashok became a Protector, part of an elite military order of roving law enforcers. Ashok became legendary not only for defeating incursions of demons, but also for his extremely black and white attitude toward law enforcement. Near the end of the first book, Ashok gets caught in the middle of political maneuverings of rival political factions.

The second book follows the stories of all the major characters from the first book, and Ashok slowly comes to realize that he has been played by evil factions and begins to have a more flexible attitude towards certain things, in between lots of action and adventures. House of Assassins is very good, but please read the first book before reading the second.

The Ruin of Kings by Jenn Lyons ($24.99, due early February) is the first of a major epic fantasy series of five books. The advance reading copy compared it to Brandon Sanderson and Patrick Rothfuss, and it really is that good. All five books are finished and will be issued 9 months apart. No more waiting for years for the next book to be written and published. Kihrin grew up in the poor part of the capital of the empire with the man he thought of as his father, a blind musician. But he became a talented thief due to the tutoring of the woman who was like a substitute mother to him. When he was kidnapped by a cruel man from a major house, who falsely claimed him as his son and heir, Kihrin started to realize that there are many who want to use him because of an ancient prophecy, and not all of them are human. Demons, gods, witches, wizards, a very possessive dragon, and various human and non-human factions all want to use him.

The Sisters of the Winter Wood by Rena Rossner ($27.00) was selected by Publishers Weekly as one of the best books of 2018, and I also enjoyed it. The book is a fantasy that makes use of Eastern European folk tales. In a remote village in the deep forests near the border of Moldova and Ukraine, a family has been guarding secrets. The father is able to transform into a bear, and the mother is able to transform into a swan. The story is told alternately by the two daughters, Liba and Laya. Liba, the older daughter, tells her part of the story in prose, and Laya tells her part in verse. As they approach adulthood, Liba is about to gain the power to transform into a bear, and Laya is getting close to being able to transform into a swan. When a troupe of mysterious men come to the village, Laya falls under their magical influence, as the men try to start a pogrom that could kill a large portion of the village, including Liba and Laya's family.

Brian McClellan is known for his wonderful Powder Mage fantasy series, but with War Cry ($11.99) he gives us a novella (89 pages) about a new fantasy world. A war has dragged on for years between the two sides, both of which use aircraft and magic to fight the war. Teado is a shape-shifting military asset, and the war has been going on since before he was born, with each side claiming the war will be over soon. Teado's platoon has been stationed on the high plains for years, never with enough supplies, with aging, faulty equipment, and their numbers dwindling. I'll admit that the writing is very good, but I would have preferred a novel instead of a little sliver of the world.

An Argumentation of Historians by Jodi Taylor ($12.99) is the ninth novel in the Chronicles of St. Mary's time travel series (and there is also a short story collection). I enjoyed it, just as I've enjoyed all the rest of the series, but it felt like the author is starting to run dry of new ideas and new jokes. I'll still pick up the next in the series, but not quite as eagerly as I picked up the earlier books.

Marked by Benedict Jacka ($7.99) is the ninth novel in the Mage Alex Verus series, set in modern London. Alex is still stuck in the middle of the conflict between the Light mages and the Dark mages. The Light mages had added Dark mage Morden to the Council, hoping to find a peaceful resolution, and Alex was forced to be Morden's assistant. Then Morden double-crossed the Council and was thrown into prison until they get around to trying and executing him. But until then, Alex takes over Morden's seat on the council, but isn't trusted by anybody.

Project Elfhorne by Wen Spencer ($7.99) is a collection of short stories that take place in the Elfhorne universe before, during, and between the four novels in the series. The stories are fun, and reminded me of how much I enjoyed the series, and how much I wish the next novel would come out. I think that if somebody read the short stories without having read the novels, they would miss a lot of the humor.

Caine's Mutiny by Charles E. Gannon ($7.99) is the fourth in the military sf series that began with Fire With Fire ($7.99) and continued with Trial by Fire ($7.99) and Raising Caine ($7.99). The novel assumes you have already read the earlier books, provides lots (over 1000 pages) of fast-paced action, and ends with a cliff-hanger. Caine Riordan and his human crew are being helped by an alien race that he thinks he can trust. Humans are raiding on the alien planet Turkh'Saar, which is not supposed to have any humans, and this could unite other alien races into a renewed war again the humans. Another race has been gathering human soldiers for centuries from several time-periods on Earth, kept them frozen until they would be useful, and then thawed them and placed them on Turkh'Saar to create problems for the current human situation. Caine wants to rescue the humans and remove all evidence that they had ever been on the planet, but alien forces want to prevent that. Many battles ensue, both on the planet and in space. When Caine succeeds against almost impossible odds, his human superiors are not pleased.

A few issues back, I recommended The Wrong Stars by Tim Pratt ($8.99) as very good space opera. The sequel, The Dreaming Stars ($8.99), takes the same spaceship crew on a new adventure to another star system, where they encounter another deadly alien menace (a nanotech swarm that has been eating human ships and is threatening to eat a human colony planet). Very good, but when can I get the next installment?

I've previously recommended the first three books from K. B. Wagers, Behind the Throne ($14.99), After the Crown ($15.99), and Beyond the Empire ($15.99). Princess Hailimi Bristol was the middle daughter of the ruling family of the Indranan Empire, a small Hindu matriarchy consisting of forty five planets spread over twenty eight star systems, about 1000 years after the diaspora from Earth. When her father was assassinated, she headed out to the stars to try to track down his killer. She failed at that, but found that she liked the freedom of the galaxy a lot more than being a part of the court at home. She became one of the top gunrunners of the galaxy, until she was dragged back home to court because more of her family have been murdered. She doesn't want to be back at court, and most of the court doesn't want her back, but it takes her gunrunner attitudes and contacts to save the family empire.

There Before the Chaos ($15.99) is the first of the next trilogy. Hail and the rest of the crew have saved the empire and want to start making repairs. But against her will, she becomes involved in a religious war between two alien civilizations that threatens to make the human race collateral damage. Lots of fast action and political intrigue, just as in the first trilogy.

The Raven Tower by Ann Leckie ($13.99, due the end of February) is her first fantasy novel. The world once was full of gods, and most of the gods got their power from the worship of their followers. But sometimes gods got power from consuming other gods. And when a god finds that another god tried to consume him but failed, it can lead to bad feelings. I had a problem with the way the story was told. There is an "I" character who tells much of the story as "you did this", "you asked that", etc. I quickly figured out that the "I" character was a god and the "you" character was a human that the god was trying to communicate with. Sometimes the "I" character tells the story from his own point of view. The mixing of the "I" point of view and the "you" point of view seemed awkward to me. I did enjoy the novel in spite of this.

Who Durnit - Short Mystery Reviews
by Mary McKinley

If you've been in recently you may have noticed that we're shifting books to make them more accessible, so if you're looking for something specific and can't find it, be sure to ask! We appreciate your support in keeping the oldest independent SF bookstore (since 1974) and one of the oldest independent mystery bookstores (opened in 1980) in business.

Like so many of us in my generation, I cut my mystery teeth on Encyclopedia Brown, Nancy Drew, the Hardy boys, and that lot. In high school, my boyfriend gave me a copy of the complete Sherlock Holmes stories - and I was hooked. I read Poe, John D. MacDonald, Agatha Christie, and many other classics. I always felt that working in a bookstore would end up costing, rather than making any money because, well books! So far, so good - I try to limit myself to one book a week. Now I just need the time to read.

So what does Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, a famous basket ball player, have to say about Mycroft Holmes, Sherlock's older brother? Recently out in mass market paperback ($7.99) and written with Anna Waterhouse, Mycroft Holmes is a not-so-classic "smarter brother" story. This book covers Mycroft as a young man, fresh out of Cambridge, and shows how he became the man that he is - founder of the Diogenes Club and the backbone of and the power behind the British government. The story stays true to the time period - it's well researched, stays true to the mores. His "Dr. Watson" is a Cyrus Douglas, black man from Trinidad, and as they are traveling to Trinidad, Cyrus often has to act as Mycroft's servant. Once in Trinidad, they go on the hunt to find out who, or what, is making children disappear. If you read this expecting Mycroft to be as he is in the Doyle stories, you'll be disappointed. This is an active Mycroft, one who follows the trail, and isn't afraid of exertion. He's also young - only 23 - and I suspect in later books we'll find out why he became solitary and sedentary. Sherlock makes a brief appearance, but this isn't his story.

And if you liked this, Mycroft and Sherlock came out in hardcover ($25.99) in October. In this novel, we find out why Mycroft is sedentary and why he delegates the "footwork" to Sherlock and his friend Cyrus as they try to discover how opium is being brought into the community. We see a young (18 years) Sherlock and watch his interest grow in solving crimes as he and Cyrus work out who is killing, stripping, and draining bodies of blood only to leave them in a park. We also see the two brothers diverge in interests and tastes, and get a better understanding of the factors that drove them not necessarily apart, but farther from each other. These two books are related, but were also written to be stand-alone books. You can read them either in order or alone. It's hard to know who wrote what portion of the books, or if Jabbar wrote and Waterhouse "cleaned up", but the books are well written, the language flows, and I am finding that the history of the brothers and how they became the men that they are, fascinating. If you've ever wondered about Mycroft Holmes, this is a great way to get to know him.

Based strictly on the title, I had to read The First Prehistoric Serial Killer and Other Stories by Teresa Solana, translated from the Spanish by Peter Bush ($14.95). I was glad I did - this was laugh out loud funny, but twisted. The title story has the protagonist, who is useless at everything but thinking, discover forensics, psychoanalysis, and religion, as well as the first serial killer. The other stories include the depths a loving mother and her dying friend use to protect her daughter from a wife abuser. There's also a vampire who is just a trifle out of step with today's world, very picky ghosts, and a very entitled art curator with a very odd art display. The second part of the book has intertwining stories about the seedier side of big city living and a guide book to Barcelona. The author challenges you to identify and follow the themes. Some of the stories felt incomplete - just a little bit more might have made them more enjoyable for me, and this refers to the second half of the book. The first half is delightful. I will be looking for more of her writings.

Amanda Flower's newest series is also Scottish in nature. Flowers and Foul Play ($15.99) has our heroine stood up at the altar, put out of business by a big chain florist, and then her godfather dies, leaving her a Scottish cottage with a walled, dying garden. Of course, as she's checking out her garden she finds the dead body of her solicitor who is hated by everyone in town so there are more suspects than clues. The garden rapidly comes back to life the more time she spends there until it is once again flourishing with an ancient yellow rose twining around the menhir in the center. Overall, I found this book to be rambling, going off frequently on tangents, and primary characters rapidly changing personality - sweet and helpful one minute, then angry and combative the next, for no apparent reason. The premise of the book is supernatural to a certain extent, but it falls short, not able to maintain that link in a reasonable fashion. Book 2 in the series, Death and Daisies, has a November 2018 release date in hardcover ($26.00).

IQ ($7.99) by Joe Ide was a surprise to me. I usually go for the lighter side of murder, preferring solving a mystery instead of finding a killer. I picked it up because it has received rave reviews and collected several awards. It's also a "thinker's" story - think Sherlock Holmes and his ability to see what's there, as well as what's not. Isaiah Quintabe, or IQ as he is known, is a high school dropout. He grew up in East Long Beach, running with a gang, until disaster hit his family. Now he takes on cases that the LAPD won't and charges whatever his clients can afford - chickens, yard work, cash, whatever. This had me hooked from the beginning, starting with seeing how a serial rapist/killer thinks and plans and adapts to changes in situations. What people around him don't realize is that he is a genius with a wide streak of practicality and common sense - not a typical former gang-banger. He notices a cell phone on the ground where, only moments before, there was a young girl talking on it and who is now missing. On his way to protect a Rapper who has been receiving threats, he meets a dog breeder who specializes in large pit bulls and killing people for money. The story flips between the present - who IQ is today - and the past - the death of his brother - was it accidental or a murder? IQ doesn't have any police connections, all of the work is done through deduction and reasoning. His neighborhood is real, and poor.

The author, Joe Ide, grew up not far from there and captures the atmosphere of poverty and the need to do anything for money. His next two books, Righteous ($15.99) and Wrecked ($27.00 signed hardcover), are both on our shelves. If you like gritty, deductive, human protagonists, you will probably like IQ.

Janet Evanovich is up to her 25th Stephanie Plum book - Look Alive Twenty-Five ($28.00), and we find Stephanie working at the Red River Deli trying to find out why the previous three managers have disappeared leaving just one shoe behind. This book was more satisfying to me than her previous two as it has more of a story. It is still pretty formulaic - Stephanie busts bond jumpers, some easy, some very difficult and dangerous, gets distracted by Ranger and Morelli (and no, still hasn't opted for one), has some supernatural help from Wulf Grimioire, and finally saves the day. As always, it's a fun read as long as you don't expect great literature or in-depth character building.

Years ago, I quit buying toys for kids as presents, instead buying them books. Once children discover books, there are whole universes that open up for them. Encyclopedia Brown books are still written and we stock several of them. Nancy Drew and the Hardy Boys are still around and in our used section. Best of all, we have new classics are on our shelves. Much to my amazement, I found that Alexander McCall Smith (of The No. 1 Ladies' Detective Agency books) has written a series of children's books featuring Precious Ramotswe's first cases as a child herself. Her books teach valuable lessons such as just because a person has lots of sweets doesn't mean that he has stolen them and to not be afraid to ask many questions - both good signs of a detective. The first book is The Great Cake Mystery ($6.00; ages 7-10), and deals with disappearing sweets. The thief is finally found and the lesson, or moral of the story, is that appearances can be deceiving. In the second book, The Mystery of Meerkat Hill ($6.99), Precious helps her new friends find their missing cow, with the help of a small friend. The Mystery of the Missing Lion ($6.99), finds Precious visiting her Aunt Bee on a game preserve when an actor lion who is there for a movie, goes off on his own. Precious, with the help of her friend and the lion trainer, are able to track the missing lion down. Precious, with her quick thinking, prevents the lion trainer from accidentally trying to recover a wild lion, and, as is quite proper, he thanks her four times for saving his life. These books talk about Botswana, giving some history of the place and people, and are gentle reminders that we all live together and need to treat each other gently, whether human or animal. There are readers questions at the end of each book which could be used to open conversations with the readers. If you enjoy McCall's gentle humor and way with words, you (and your kids) will enjoy these books.

Mr. and Mrs, Bunny - Detectives Extraodinaire!
($8.99; ages 8-12) translated from the Rabbit by Polly Horvath, is hilarious. Madeline comes home one day to find her parents missing and a note on the refrigerator written in a squiggly code. There are also lots of beady fox eyes watching her through the kitchen window. She is able to find two detective bunnies (because detectives get to wear fedoras) who are willing and able to help her. They end up calling in a marmot (and marmots never bring cake) to help decode the message because marmots are mad decoders. The foxes are thwarted, the mystery solved, the parents rescued, and the Bunnys decide to change hats. The second book, Lord and Lady Bunny - Almost Royalty ($8.99), has Madeline wanting to save for college even though that's a long way off. Her parents, being ex-hippies, have almost no money ($6.27, to be exact), but they inherit a sweet shoppe in England, and travel across the pond to take up residence. Mrs. Bunny decides she wants to be queen, so she and her husband follow behind to Merrie Olde England. The Bunnys and Madeline are thrilled to be reunited, and Mrs. Bunny's book is published, Mr. Bunny debuts on stage as King Lear, and they invent magic candy that just has to be trained. As always, everything works out happily, and Mrs. Bunny gives her book royalties to Madeline for college, since her ex-hippie parents manage to end up with $6.27 exactly after expenses.

Based on a comment from Don, I took a look at the Liturgical Mysteries by Mark Schweizer. These include The Alto Wore Tweed, The Baritone Wore Chiffon, The Tenor Wore Tapshoes, The Soprano Wore Falsettos, The Bass Wore Scales,

The Mezzo Wore Mink, The Diva Wore Diamonds, The Organist Wore Pumps, The Countertenor Wore Garlic, The Christmas Cantata, The Treble Wore Trouble, The Cantor Wore Crinolines, The Maestro Wore Mohair, The Lyric Wore Lycra, and The Choir Director Wore Out (just arrived). They range in price from $12.95 to $13.95, and are signed by the author. They take place in the small town of St. Germaine, North Carolina and feature Police Chief Hayden Konig in his quest to become the next great Mystery Writer. He even has Raymond Chandler's typewriter to help him write! Unfortunately, he's a terrible writer. Luckily, he's a much better deductive detective than a writer. He's also the choir director at the local Episcopal church, and dead bodies keep showing up in the strangest places: choir lofts, lakes, by a singing gorilla... I haven't read these (yet!), but I've sampled them. In between the excerpts of Hayden's horrible writings are delicious, funny stories that also gave me a decent musical education. This series just got added to my list of "must reads".

Should she stop them, or help her creations achieve their full potential?)

Weber, David -- War of Honor limited edition $36.00 (Honor Harrington #10: Reissue; No one wanted another war. Thomas Theisman didn't. Baron High Ridge didn't. His Imperial Majesty Gustav didn't. Protector Benjamin didn't. And Honor Harrington certainly didn't. Unfortunately, what they wanted didn't matter. Signed copies)

Wilkins, Kim -- Sisters of the Fire $27.00 (Daughters of the Storm #2: Four years ago, the five sisters worked together to restore their father to the throne, but fractured the bonds uniting them. Blue dutifully serves as heir. Rowan hides in exile with her aunt. Ash is learning magic and hunting dragons. Ivy rules a prosperous seaport. And Willow hides a dangerous secret - one that could destroy all that the sisters once saved.)

Winters, Ben -- Golden State $28.00 (In the Golden State, knowingly contradicting the truth is the greatest crime, and stopping those crimes is Laszlo's job. As such, he is one of the few individuals permitted to harbor untruths, to speculate on what might have happened. And when those in control of the facts twist them for nefarious purposes, the Speculators are the only ones with the power to fight back.)

Wraight, Chris -- The Lords of Silence $16.00 (Warhammer 40,000: Among those seeking vengeance on the Corpse Emperor's faltering realm are the Death Guard, once proud crusaders of the Legiones Astartes, now debased creatures of terror and contagion.)

MID FEBRUARY

Anders, Charlie Jane -- The City in the Middle of the Night $26.99 (January is a dying planet, divided between permanently frozen darkness on one side and endless blazing sunshine on the other. Humanity survives in two cities built in the habitable sliver of dusk. Sophie, a reluctant revolutionary, is supposed to be dead after being exiled into the night.

Saved only by forming a bond with the enigmatic beasts who roam the ice, she vows to stay hidden, but fate has other plans. Signed copies expected)

Bates, Callie -- The Memory of Fire $17.00
(Waking Land #2: The land has awoken, and news of magic's rebirth has traveled across the sea. Jahan is ready to stop hiding his powers, and returns to the imperial capital to face his dark past and learn to embrace his gifts.)

Brown, Pierce -- Dark Age $28.00 (Red Rising #5: Outlawed by the Republic he founded, Darrow wages a rogue war on Mercury, hoping to salvage the dream of Eo. But as he leaves death and destruction in his wake, is he still the hero who broke the chains? Lysander has returned to the Core, determined to bring peace back to humanity at the edge of his sword. But theirs are not the only fates hanging in the balance.)

Caine, Rachel/Aguirre, Ann -- Honor Bound
$17.99 (Honors #2: Ages 13 and up. Zara, Beatriz, and their ship Nadim barely escaped a bloody battle. Now they need safe haven, but with two wounded Leviathans to treat and refugees to help, they'll have to settle for the nearest outpost: the Sliver, a dangerous warren of alien criminals, where Zara discovers secrets that may have the power to turn the tide of the war - in the wrong direction.)

Clark, P. Djeli -- The Haunting of Tram Car 015
$14.99 (Novella. In an alternate Cairo, the Ministry of Alchemy, Enchantments, and Supernatural Enemies handles issues that arise between humans and otherworldly beings. Senior Agent Hamed Nasr and his new partner are called in to subdue a possessed tram car; the case grows more complicated as the origins of the demon are revealed.)

Esselmont, Ian C. -- Kellanved's Reach $19.99

(Malazan Empire: Path to Ascendancy #3: Kellanved, reluctantly accompanied by his decidedly skeptical friend Dancer, traverses continents and journeys through the Realms in search of an ancient mystery involving the Elder races and the semi-mythic Army of Dust and Bone.)

Fforde, Jasper -- Early Riser $28.00 (Every Winter, humanity hibernates in a snow-draped landscape devoid of human activity. Well, not quite. It's Charlie Worthing's first season with the Winter Consuls, the committed but mildly unhinged group responsible for ensuring safe hibernation. While investigating an outbreak of viral dreams he has to: avoid the Villains and their penchant for murder, kidnapping, and stamp collecting; not get eaten by Nightwalkers; and sidestep the increasingly less mythical WinterVolk.)

French, John -- Tallarn $9.99 (Warhammer

40,000: Horus Heresy: Perturabo, lord of the Iron Warriors, unleashes a deadly bombardment against the world of Tallarn.)

Bryan, Beverley -- Heart of the Race $19.95

(Reissue; Originally published in 1985. This book reclaims and records black women's place in British history, documenting their day-to-day struggles, their experiences of education, work and health care, and the personal and political struggles they have waged to preserve a sense of identity and community, as well as their relationship to the British state throughout its long history of slavery, empire, and colonialism.)

Buchholz, Simone -- Blue Night $14.95

(Chastity Riley #1: After convicting a superior for corruption and shooting a gangster, hard-bitten state prosecutor Chastity Riley has been transferred to the tedium of witness protection. However, when she is assigned an anonymous man lying under police guard in a hospital - bones broken, a finger cut off, and speaking only in riddles - she senses a big, exciting case.)

Buckley, Fiona -- The Heretic's Creed $17.95

(Ursula Blanchard #14: 1577: Sir William Cecil tasks Ursula with visiting a group of recusant women who possess an ancient book Dr. John Dee is eager to get hold of. His two previous emissaries vanished without a trace. What happened to them? Will Ursula suffer the same fate?)

Carofiglio, Gianrico -- The Cold Summer

$14.95 (1992: Fenoglio, a member of the Italian Carabinieri, must deal with the new gang wars raging around Bari, and solve a boy's murder, in a world where the prosecutors are hard to distinguish from the prosecuted.)

Clare, Alys -- The Devil's Cup $17.95

(Hawkenlye #17: 1216: His rule threatened, King John summons Sir Josse to support him. But can Sir Josse save the king from himself? Meanwhile, Josse's daughter Meggie is summoned to Hawkenlye to attend a sick patient, an elderly woman who warns of terrible danger unless she can complete her mission. Her patient's words send Meggie on a perilous journey to retrieve a cursed treasure.)

Coates, Ta-Nehisi -- Between the World and Me $25.00 (What is it like to inhabit a black body and find a way to live within it? The US built an empire on the idea of 'race', a falsehood that damages us all, but falls most heavily on the bodies of black people - historically exploited through slavery and segregation, and today threatened, incarcerated, and murdered out of all proportion.)

Coates, Ta-Nehisi -- We Were Eight Years in Power $18.00 ('We were eight years in power' was the lament of Reconstruction-era black politicians as the American experiment in multiracial democracy ended with the return of white supremacist rule in the South. In these essays, Coates explores the echoes of that history in our own time: the election of a black president followed by a vicious backlash that fueled the election of the man Coates argues is America's 'first white president'.)

Cooper Jr., Clarence -- The Syndicate $14.95 (Reissue; Originally published in 1960. A hard-hitting story plunging into the psycho-sexual depths of a ruthless enforcer sent to retrieve syndicate money.)

Cooper, Susan Rogers -- Student Body $17.95 (E.J. Pugh #13: Graham Pugh should be having a ball as a university freshman. Unfortunately, his roommate is a complete jerk. Even more unfortunately, Graham wakes up one morning to find the jerk dead on the floor. E.J. is determined to prove her son's innocence.)

Dams, Jeanne M. -- The Missing Masterpiece

$17.95 (Dorothy Martin #19: On a holiday in France, Dorothy finds herself embroiled in mysteries: a woman has drowned in quicksand, a man has suffered a near-fatal fall at an abbey, and an American archaeologist has gone missing - all seemingly connected to a monk named Abelard who has been dead for almost nine centuries.)

Dard, Frederic -- The Gravediggers' Bread

$13.95 (A chance encounter with a beautiful blonde in the town post-office and Blaise is hooked - he'll do anything to stay by her side, and soon finds himself working for her husband, a funeral director. But the tension in this strange love triangle begins to mount, and eventually results in a highly unorthodox burial.)

Davis, Lindsey -- The Third Nero $16.99

(Flavia Albia #5: 90 CE: Flavia Alba reluctantly agrees to do some investigating for the increasingly paranoid Emperor Domitian.)

Dawson, Janet -- The Ghost in Roomette Four

$15.95 (California Zephyr #3: PBO; 1954: Zephyrette Jill McLeod walks through the Silver Gorge Pullman car, and sees a shimmering light. A ghost? Jill doubts the evidence of her own eyes, but soon learns that others have seen the phenomenon, too. Is there a connection to an incident two months earlier, when Jill found the body of a young man there?)

Driscoll, Sara -- Before It's Too Late $9.99
(FBI K-9 #2: FBI special agent Meg Jennings and her search & rescue dog Hawk race against the clock to stop a twisted killer's body count from climbing higher.)

Du Bois, W.E.B. -- Black Reconstruction in America $22.00 (Reissue; Originally published in 1935. This pioneering work was the first full-length study of the role black Americans played in the crucial period after the Civil War, when the slaves had been freed and the attempt was made to reconstruct American society.)

Edim, Glory (ed) -- Well-Read Black Girl: Finding Our Stories, Discovering Ourselves $20.00 (Original essays by black women writers that shine a light on how important it is that all of us - regardless of gender, race, religion, or ability - have the opportunity to find ourselves included in literature.)

Midwestern authors serve up tales of crime and cookery with holiday themes. Includes recipes.)

Grabenstein, Chris -- Mr. Lemoncello's Great Library Race $7.99 (Mr. Lemoncello #3:

Ages 8 and up. Mr. Lemoncello is testing his new game! If Kyle can make it through the first round, he and the other finalists will go on a great race - by bicycle, bookmobile, and Mr. Lemoncello's corporate banana jet - to find fascinating facts about famous Americans. But when a few surprising 'facts' surface about Mr. Lemoncello, it might be Go to Jail and Lose a Turn all at once! Could Kyle's hero be a fraud?)

- Grafton, Sue -- Y Is for Yesterday $16.00
(Kinsey Millhone #25: In 1979, four teens sexually assaulted a classmate and filmed the attack. Then the tape disappeared, and the suspected thief was murdered. One boy turned state's evidence, two were convicted, and the ringleader escaped without a trace. Ten years later, one of the men has been released from prison - and has received a copy of the missing tape with a ransom demand. His family turns to Kinsey Millhone for help.)

Greenwald, Tommy -- My Dog Is Better Than Your Dog $12.99 (Crimebiters #1: Ages 8 and up. Jimmy loves his new dog Abby, but she has some unusual habits, and he's beginning to wonder if she's a vampire. Jimmy's friend Irwin thinks Jimmy is being ridiculous, but when Abby uncovers a crime in progress, even Irwin has to admit that perhaps Abby has some special powers.)

Greenwald, Tommy -- It's a Doggy Dog World $12.99 (Crimebiters #2: Ages 8 and up. When Jimmy joins the lacrosse team and mysterious things start happening on and off the field, the Crimebiters investigate.)

Greenwald, Tommy -- Dog Day After School

$12.99 (Crimebiters #3: Ages 8 and up. A copy of the final math test has been stolen, and the local animal shelter is in danger of closing. Can four determined kids and two squabbling pets save the day again?)

Gregory, Dick -- Defining Moments in Black History $15.99

(Comedian and social justice activist Dick Gregory charts the empowering yet often obscured past of the African American experience, moving from African ancestry and surviving the Middle Passage through the Great Migration and the Harlem Renaissance to modern times.)

Hirvonen, Elina -- When Time Runs Out $12.95

(A young man is shooting people from a rooftop in Helsinki. His mother is confronted with a horrifying scenario she is powerless to stop. His sister can only watch events unfold from afar. Over the course of a day, one family fractures. But this crisis goes beyond their small lives: Aslak is not the only boy on a rooftop with a gun today.)

Hoch, Edward D. -- Challenge the Impossible

$19.00 (Sam Hawthorne #4: Sam Hawthorne, a New England country doctor, solves fifteen seemingly impossible crimes in these stories originally published between 1940 and 1944.)

Hoeg, Peter -- The Susan Effect $14.95

(Susan is expert at finding out secrets; people feel compelled to confide in her, and unwittingly confess their innermost thoughts. She has exploited this talent, but now her family is in jeopardy and a prison sentence hangs over her head, until she gets an offer from a former government official. All charges dropped if she uses her power one more time, to track down the surviving members of a secretive think tank, and find out the details of their mysterious final report.)

Hornsby, Wendy -- Number 7, Rue Jacob $15.95
(Maggie MacGowen #11: PBO; Jean-Paul and Maggie begin a nightmare trip across Europe as they try to stay a step ahead of a predator who uses every electronic medium to stalk them. Who? And why? As they try to answer those questions, their nemesis uses the internet to offer a reward for their capture, turning the pursuit into a crazy real-world game.)

James, Bill -- Close $17.95 (Harpur & Iles #34: Thomas Hart drifted into a dodgy career as a PI and grew clever at tailing suspects and the other tricks of the trade. Not quite clever enough, though - it's up to Harpur and Iles to figure out how Hart came to be executed behind the wheel of a Ford Focus on a quiet suburban street.)

Jecks, Michael -- Murder Too Soon $17.95
(Jack Blackjack #2: 1554: Jack's employer believes that a spy has been installed in the Princess Elizabeth's household, and dispatches Jack to deal with the threat. Jack arrives, only to find that a murder has already been committed.)

Jones, Peter -- Quid Pro Quo: What the Romans Really Gave the English Language $14.95

(Nonfiction. From germs and bullets to custard and tinsel, Jones traces the origins of hundreds of everyday English words with Latin roots.)

Kendi, Ibram X. -- Stamped from the Beginning $19.99 (National Book Award winner. An award-winning historian traces how racist ideas were created, spread, and deeply rooted in American society.)

King Jr., Martin Luther -- Why We Can't Wait $9.99 (Reissue; Originally published in 1964. King's classic exploration of the events and forces behind the Civil Rights Movement, including his 'Letter from Birmingham Jail, April 16, 1963'.)

Kope, Spencer -- Collecting the Dead $9.99 (Special Tracking Unit #1: The Special Tracking Unit is tasked with finding the lost or abducted and bringing them home. Magnus 'Steps' Craig is renowned for his ability to find and follow trails over any surface, giving his team an edge for stopping serial killers. Now there's a new monster at large, and the bodies are piling up.)

Lawrence, Hilda -- Blood Upon the Snow $14.95 (Mark East #1: Reissue; Originally published in 1944. PI Mark East arrives at an elegant estate to serve as private secretary to a nervous archeologist. It soon becomes apparent that East's employer is actually in need of a bodyguard. After a snow storm isolates the house, the occupants start dying under mysterious circumstances.)

Laycock, S/West, C -- Lost Countries: Exotic Tales from an Old Stamp Album $21.95

(Nonfiction. Pick up an old stamp album, and you'll find a host of exotic and unfamiliar names - distant lands, vanished territories, lost countries. Do they still exist? If not, where were they? And what happened to them?)

Lindgren, Minna -- Escape from Sunset Grove

$13.95 (Lavender Ladies #2: Under threat from falling masonry, best friends Irma and Siiri are forced out of Sunset Grove to negotiate 21st-century living in the center of Helsinki. Joined by a growing number of friends in their flat-share, they face unexpected questions. As they dig deeper, they find themselves following a trail of corruption, deceit, and intimidation.)

Lindgren, Minna -- The End of Sunset Grove

$13.95 (Lavender Ladies #3: Best friends Irma and Siiri are relieved to return home, but find that Sunset Grove is under sinister new management that promises spiritual enlightenment in return for donations from residents. The staff has been replaced by technology that remotely takes care of all of their needs, if they could figure out how it works. The Lavender Ladies plan an elaborate act of sabotage - but their last hurrah has some drastic consequences.)

Mckesson, DeRay -- On the Other Side of Freedom

$25.00 (Drawing from his own experiences as an activist, organizer, educator, and public official, Mckesson lays out the intellectual, pragmatic, and political framework for a new liberation movement. Continuing a conversation about activism, resistance, and justice that embraces our nation's complex history, he dissects how deliberate oppression persists, how racial injustice strips our lives of promise, and how technology has added a new dimension to mass action and social change.)

Odden, Karen -- A Dangerous Duet $15.99

(PBO; Victorian London: Determined to raise money to attend the Royal Academy, Nell Hallam disguises herself as a man and slips out at night to play piano at a popular Soho music hall. When she learns that a notorious and deadly crime ring is working in the music hall's shadows, she is drawn into a conspiracy that stretches the length of London.)

Ostler, Rosemarie -- Splendiferous Speech

$17.99 (PBO; Ostler takes readers along on the journey as Americans declare linguistic independence from England and embrace their own speech, exploring sources of American vernacular such as the western frontier, the bumptious world of politics, and the sensationalism of popular 19th-century newspapers.)

Pascoe, Bruce -- Dark Emu $15.95 (Pascoe uncovers evidence that, long before the arrival of white people, Aboriginal people across the Australian continent were building dams and wells; planting, irrigating, and harvesting seeds, and then preserving the surplus and storing it in houses, sheds, or secure vessels; and creating elaborate cemeteries and manipulating the landscape. All of these behaviors were inconsistent with the hunter-gatherer tag, which turns out have been a convenient lie that worked to justify dispossession.)

Schweizer, Mark -- The Choir Director Wore Out
$13.95 (Liturgical Mystery #15: St. Germaine is in a season of change: a couple of new shops have opened on the square; a Renaissance Festival has just opened out at Camp Possumtickle; and St. Barnabas Church has a new priest, straight from France, who is also a famous mystery author and detective. Good thing, because Hayden Konig's police department has a raft of homicides on its hands with no end in sight. Signed copies)

Sequiera, Christopher (ed) -- Sherlock Holmes: The Australian Casebook $26.95 (Anthology. Original stories of the Great Detective during his 1890 trip Down Under, written by Australian authors.)

- Cavanagh, Steve -- The Plea $9.99 (Eddie Flynn #2: When David Child, a major client of a corrupt New York law firm, is arrested for murder, the FBI asks lawyer Eddie Flynn to secure David as his client and turn him to testify against the firm.)

Childs, Laura -- Eggs on Ice $26.00
(Cackleberry Club #8: You'd have a dickens of a time finding someone who likes attorney Allen Sharpe, but it's still a shock when the Ghost of Christmas Past stabs him during the first rehearsal of A Christmas Carol.)

Crais, Robert -- The Wanted $9.99 (Cole & Pike #17: When single mother Devon Connor hires PI Elvis Cole, it's because her son Tyson is flashing cash and she's afraid he's dealing drugs. But the truth is devastatingly different - he's responsible for a string of high-end burglaries.)

DeMille, Nelson -- The Cuban Affair $9.99
(Mac runs a charter fishing boat out of Key West, but his latest clients aren't looking to fish - they want to retrieve sixty million dollars their grandfather left hidden in Cuba when he fled Castro's revolution. Mac knows if he takes this job, he'll walk away rich - or not at all.)

Dent, Susie -- Dent's Modern Tribes: The Secret Languages of Britain $15.99 (Word expert Susie Dent has spent years interviewing professionals, hobbyists, and enthusiasts to compile this idiosyncratic phrasebook of British slang.)

Doyle/Sandford -- The Man Who Would Be Sherlock $28.99 (Arthur Conan Doyle was involved in investigating dozens of real life cases, solving many, and zealously campaigning for justice in all. Sandford makes the case that many of the details of these cases provided fodder for his fictional detective's work.)

Duncan, Francis -- So Pretty a Problem $14.99

(Mordecai Tremaine #5: Reissue; Adrian Carthallow is no stranger to controversy, but this time it's not his paintings provoking publicity - it's that his career has been terminated by a bullet to the head. His wife confesses, but the facts don't add up, so the town's police inspector turns to amateur criminologist Mordecai Tremaine for help.)

Duncan, Francis -- In at the Death $14.99

(Mordecai Tremaine #6: Reissue; When Mordecai Tremaine and Chief Inspector Jonathan Boyce investigate a murder in Bridgton, a question soon emerges: why did the highly regarded Dr. Hardene bring a revolver on a routine house call?)

Swinson, David -- Crime Song $15.99 (Frank Marr #2: Disgraced cop turned PI Frank Marr's surveillance confirms that his cousin Jeffrey is involved in a small-time drug operation. Modest stuff, it seems, until Frank's home is burglarized, leaving Jeffrey's body on the kitchen floor.)

Symons, Julian -- The Belting Inheritance $12.95 (Reissue; Originally published in 1964. Lady Wainwright presides at Belting, mourning her two sons lost in World War II. Years later, a stranger arrives claiming to be David Wainwright, not dead but long held captive in a Russian prison camp. With the lady's health fading and an inheritance at stake, the family is torn apart by doubts about the man's identity.)

Taylor, Andrew -- The American Boy $16.99
(1819: Thomas Shield is tutor to an American boy and his best friend Charles Frant. When a murder takes place in London's seedy backstreets, all clues lead to the Frant family, and Shield is tangled in a web of lies. At the heart of these macabre events lies the American boy: what secrets is young Edgar Allan Poe hiding?)

Tearle, Oliver -- Britain by the Book $15.99
(A multitude of curious questions are answered in this travelogue with a literary theme. What caused Charles Dickens to leap out of bed one night and walk thirty miles from London to Kent? How did a small town on the Welsh borders become the second-hand bookshop capital of the world? Why did a jellyfish persuade Evelyn Waugh to abandon his suicide in North Wales?)

Wiebe, Sam -- Cut You Down $18.99 (Wakeland #2: Vancouver PI Dave Wakeland is hired to find Tabitha Sorenson, a bright but unstable student who disappeared in the aftermath of a scandal involving millions of dollars in missing college funds.)

Wilson, F. Paul -- The Void Protocol $27.99 (ICE Sequence #3: The product of technology confiscated from the Nazis sits in a bunker below a New Jersey military facility. No one knows what it is, but illegal human research has revealed what it can do. Humans with special abilities have been secretly collected. And so it sits, slowly changing the world.)

EARLY FEBRUARY

- Akunin, Boris -- The State Counsellor $16.00
(Fandorin #6: Russia, 1891: The new governor of Siberia has been secreted away on a train from St. Petersburg to Moscow. An official climbs aboard, introduces himself as Erast Fandorin, kills the man, and flees. When the Department of Security arrests the real Fandorin, the only way to save his reputation is to find the culprit - and the government mole who supplied information.)
- Atkins, Ace -- The Lost Ones $9.99 (Quinn Colson #2: Edgar finalist. A child abuse case leads newly elected Sheriff Colson and his deputy Lillie Virgil to a human trafficking ring, and a trail of death. And an old buddy running a local gun shop may be in over his head when stolen army rifles start showing up in the hands of a Mexican drug gang.)
- Bell, Ted -- Overkill $7.99 (Alex Hawke #10: Hawke's skiing holiday in St. Moritz turns into a nightmare when his young son inexplicably goes missing from the gondola they were on.)
- Bellotto, Tony -- Bellini and the Sphinx
$15.95 (Remo Bellini #1: Who is the missing dancer Ana Cintia Lopes? Why did her coworkers Camila and Dineia disappear? Who killed surgeon Dr. Samuel Rafidjian? These questions and more plunge PI Remo Bellini into the underworld of Sao Paulo, Brazil.)

Berenson, Alex -- The Deceivers $9.99 (John Wells #13: An old asset in Colombia has information to share, and it will lead Wells to the deadliest mission of his life - sleeper cells, sniper teams, false flag ops, highly placed double agents, and a Russian plot to take over the US government.)

Box, C.J. -- The Disappeared $9.99 (Joe Pickett #18: The new governor has a delicate job for Pickett: find out what happened to an important British woman, who hasn't been seen since she visited a Wyoming guest ranch months ago.)

Bradley, Alan -- The Golden Tresses of the Dead $26.00 (Flavia de Luce #10: Flavia has honed her detection skills to the point where she has little choice but to turn professional, so she and Dogger set up shop. Their first case will be extremely close to home, beginning with the unwelcome discovery of a human finger in her sister Ophelia's wedding cake.)

Camilleri, Andrea -- The Overnight Kidnapper $16.00 (Montalbano #23: A woman has been abducted, drugged, then released unharmed a few hours later. In a few days, the same thing happens again. The only link between the two events is that both women work at a bank. Inspector Montalbano and his team investigate.)

Cavallaro, Brittany -- The Case for Jamie

$9.99 (Charlotte Holmes & James Watson #3: Ages 13 and up. Jamie and Charlotte haven't spoken in a year. Jamie is going through the motions, trying to finish his senior year without incident. Charlotte is on the run. No one has seen her, and she wants it that way. She knows she isn't safe to be around, and that Watson can't forgive her. When strange things start happening, it's clear that someone wants the team back together - someone who wants to see one of them suffering, and the other one dead.)

Corry, Jane -- My Husband's Wife $9.99

(When Lily marries Ed, she's determined to leave the secrets of the past behind. Then she takes on her first murder case and meets Joe, a convicted murderer she is strangely drawn to - and for whom she will soon be willing to risk almost anything.)

Ellis, Kate -- The Boy Who Lived with the Dead

$26.99 (Albert Lincoln #2: 1920: DI Albert Lincoln is called to a new case in the village of Mabley Ridge. Before the Great War, he unsuccessfully investigated a child's murder there. Now a woman has been murdered, and a child is missing. This time, Albert is determined to find the truth - and the missing child.)

Fluke, Joanne -- Raspberry Danish Murder

$7.99 (Hannah Swensen #24: Hannah's husband Ross has vanished without a trace, leaving their marriage in limbo. Then his assistant

P.K. is murdered. P.K. has been using Ross' car as well as his desk at the TV station, which raises a question: who was the intended victim?)

Fox, Candice -- Crimson Lake $9.99 (After being accused but not convicted of a brutal crime, Sydney detective Ted Conkaffey winds up in Crimson Lake, where his lawyer introduces him to PI Amanda Pharrell, a convicted murderer. Not convinced she is a killer, Ted agrees to investigate her case.)

Gleason, Robert -- The Evil That Men Do $9.99 (Income inequality has reached such extremes that people worldwide are demanding that the UN seize and redistribute illicit offshore funds. Those in power will do anything to stop this movement - even nuke the UN - unless a team of operatives can stop them.)

Greenwald, Tommy -- Fangs for Everything $12.99 (Crimebiters #4: Ages 8 and up. While the rest of the Crimebiters are busy, Jimmy sets out to answer the question that's threatening to drive a stake through his heart: is his dog Abby really a vampire?)

Harris, Sherry -- The Gun Also Rises $7.99 (Sarah Winston #6: While sorting through a massive collection of mysteries in a woman's attic, Sarah discovers a case of lost Hemingway stories, stolen from a Paris train in 1922. How did they end up in Massachusetts?)

Henry, Julia -- Pruning the Dead $7.99 (Lilly Jayne #1: Retiree Lilly Jayne's inaugural garden party is going well until her ex's third wife shows up and makes a scene. When the woman is murdered days later, and Lilly's best friend and her ex become suspects, Lilly investigates with some help from the Garden Squad.)

Ivar, Katja -- Evil Things $14.95 (Hella Mauzer #1: Cold War era: Hella Mauzer's superiors in the Helsinki Homicide Unit deemed her too emotional and reassigned her. Now she is working in Lapland for a boss more interested in crime statistics than police work. When a man disappears from a village on the Soviet border, Hella leaps at the chance to investigate.)

Ivy, Alexandra -- You Will Suffer $7.99 (Something strange is going on in Curry, Oklahoma. Lawyer Ellie Guthrie finds her tires slashed. Dead rats are dumped on her patio. Her neighbor, former FBI agent Nate Marcel, insists on watching out for her. And then bodies begin turning up: supposed overdoses that Nate suspects are something more sinister.)

Johnson, Carrie H. -- Hot Flash $7.99 (Muriel Mabley #1: Muriel sweats every detail as a forensic firearms specialist. When her sister in witness protection receives a terrifying warning, Muriel's long-time partner Laughton reveals he knows more than he should about her and Muriel's past. And when Laughton's ex-wife and her new husband turn up dead, his own secrets send Muriel down a twisted trail of disappeared witnesses and wrenching betrayal.)

Kelly, Diane -- Dead as a Door Knocker $7.99
(House Flipper #1: A fixer-upper is like catnip to Whitney Whitaker, but her latest acquisition turns out to have a dead body in the flower bed. Now it's up to Whitney - with some help from Nashville detective Collin Flynn - to find out what happened.)

Kent, Kathleen -- The Dime $7.99 (Edgar finalist. Betty Rhyzyk's Brooklyn street smarts only get her so far when she transfers to the Dallas, Texas, police force. As her first investigation goes sideways, she does battle with unruly subordinates, a persistent stalker, a formidable crime organization, and an unsupportive girlfriend.)

Kope, Spencer -- Whispers of the Dead $9.99
(Special Tracking Unit #2: The Special Tracking Unit investigates when a pair of human feet are found stored in a cooler in a judge's home in Texas.)

Koryta, Michael -- How It Happened $16.99
(FBI investigator Rob Barrett staked his name and reputation on an duplicitous woman's murder confession, only to have the bodies turn up 200 miles away and covered in someone else's DNA. His career may already be over, but Barrett is determined to get to the truth for the sake of the victim's grieving father.)

Lee, R.J. -- Grand Slam Murders $15.95 (Bridge to Death #1: The quiet Mississippi town of Rosalie has its first quadruple homicide: four wealthy widows sat down at the bridge table and never got up again. Who put cyanide in their sugar bowl? Society columnist Wendy Winchester is hoping the case will deal her a better hand as an investigative reporter.)

Lutz, John -- The Havana Game $9.99 (Thomas Laker #2: The US appears linked to a terrorist bombing in a Baltic nation and a Russian troop buildup just over the border. Thomas Laker is sent to untangle the mess. Meanwhile, Ava North's investigation of an agent's death leads to a Cuban-American billionaire who's in bed with the Jersey mob.)

McCrery, Nigel -- Bloodline $13.99 (Mark Lapslie #6: When a British university student disappears while investigating a family mystery in Spain, DCI Lapslie and DC Bradbury are sent to investigate alongside the local police.)

Morgan, Alexis -- Death by Committee $7.99 (Abby McCree #1: Abby is moving on from a rough divorce when her Aunt Sybil dies, leaving her a rundown estate complete with a slobbery Mastiff and a sexy tenant who growls more than the dog.
